

DO YOU REMEMBER

Russ Quaglia

Quaglia Institute for Student Aspirations

....going to bed the night before the first day of school?

....telling Mom or Dad your throat was sore when it really wasn't?

....when recess was more important than math, science, or social studies?

....the fear of the wooden ruler?

....looking forward to a fire drill?

....how it felt getting a hug from your favorite teacher?

....always giving your folks a hug and kiss goodbye?

....asking to be dropped off a block from school so your friends wouldn't see you give your folks a hug and kiss goodbye?

....the time you felt teachers were the next thing to god?

....the first time you saw a teacher in a store with jeans on?

....bringing home a great report card and how excited you were to show your parents?

....running to the mailbox in the hope to grab that letter from school before your parents?

....your first beer?

....being caught?

....the first time you were in love?

....the first time you were dumped?

....when you thought teachers knew everything?

....when you were convinced that teachers were from another planet and were never kids themselves?

....going to school the day before your family was going on vacation?

....going to school after your mom and dad had a big fight?

....having a crush on your sixth grade teacher?

....how it felt when you found out that the teacher was married and had children older than you?

....wearing your new sneakers to school and how proud you felt?

....going to school after one of your parents cut your hair in an effort to save money for the family?

....not having a date to the big dance?

....having one date too many?

....scoring the winning point for your school in the championship game?

....being responsible for the teams only loss the season?

....sitting in class when it was bright and sunny outside.

....listening to the radio, praying to the great snow god that school would be canceled...

....receiving a college acceptance letter?

....receiving college entrance exam scores back that were so low you wondered if the only thing you got right was your name?

•Do you remember what it was like being a student?
